Komodo Dragon

Why does a Komodo dragon flick its tongue?

Did you know? A Komodo dragon picks up scent particles with its forked tongue. A sensory organ in the roof of its mouth reads those scents, helping the lizard find food even when it is out of sight.