Alligator Snapping Turtle

What looks like a worm inside this turtle's mouth?

Did you know? An alligator snapping turtle has a small, wormlike lure attached to its tongue. It can stay still underwater and wriggle that lure, drawing curious fish close enough for a quick snap.