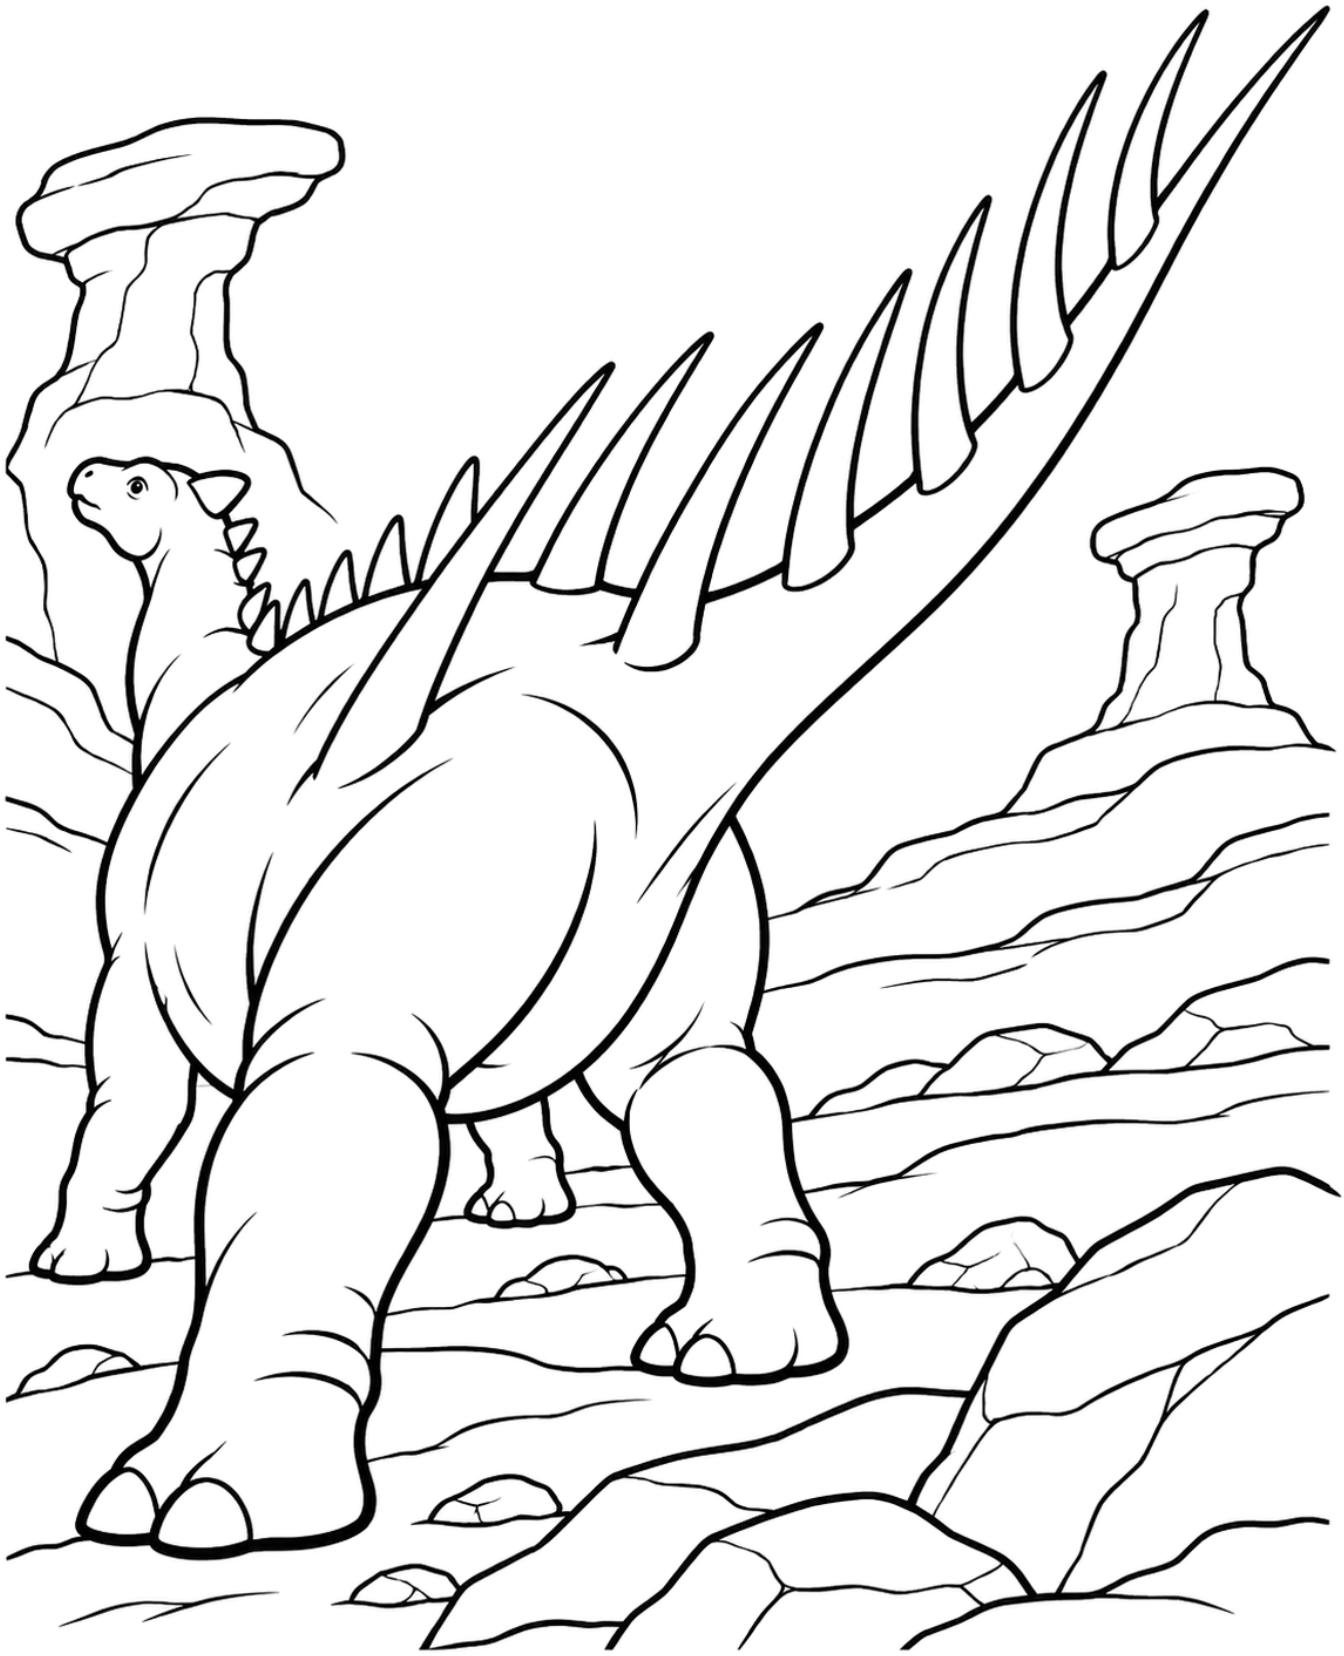
Kentrosaurus

Where do the plates give way to spikes?



Did you know? Kentrosaurus was a relative of Stegosaurus. Small plates lined the front part of its back, while longer spikes stood out farther back and along the tail. Fossils of Kentrosaurus were found at Tendaguru Hill in what is now Tanzania.