Protoceratops

Can you spot the beak and frill?

Did you know? Protoceratops had a hard beak for biting off food and a bony frill behind its head. This relative of the horned dinosaurs was much smaller than Triceratops. It lived in Late Cretaceous Asia, where it shared its habitat with Velociraptor.