Glacier Wing

Why are some parts of a glacier blue?

Did you know? Snow slowly presses into ice as new layers pile up. Thick glacier ice absorbs more red light than blue. Some of the blue light makes it back to your eyes. Look for the tall wall of ice beside this dragon's wings.