Giant Manta Ray

How does a giant manta ray eat tiny food?

Did you know? As it swims, the ray uses flaps beside its mouth to guide water inside. It filters tiny animals called zooplankton from the water. The large fins that look like wings keep it moving through the sea.