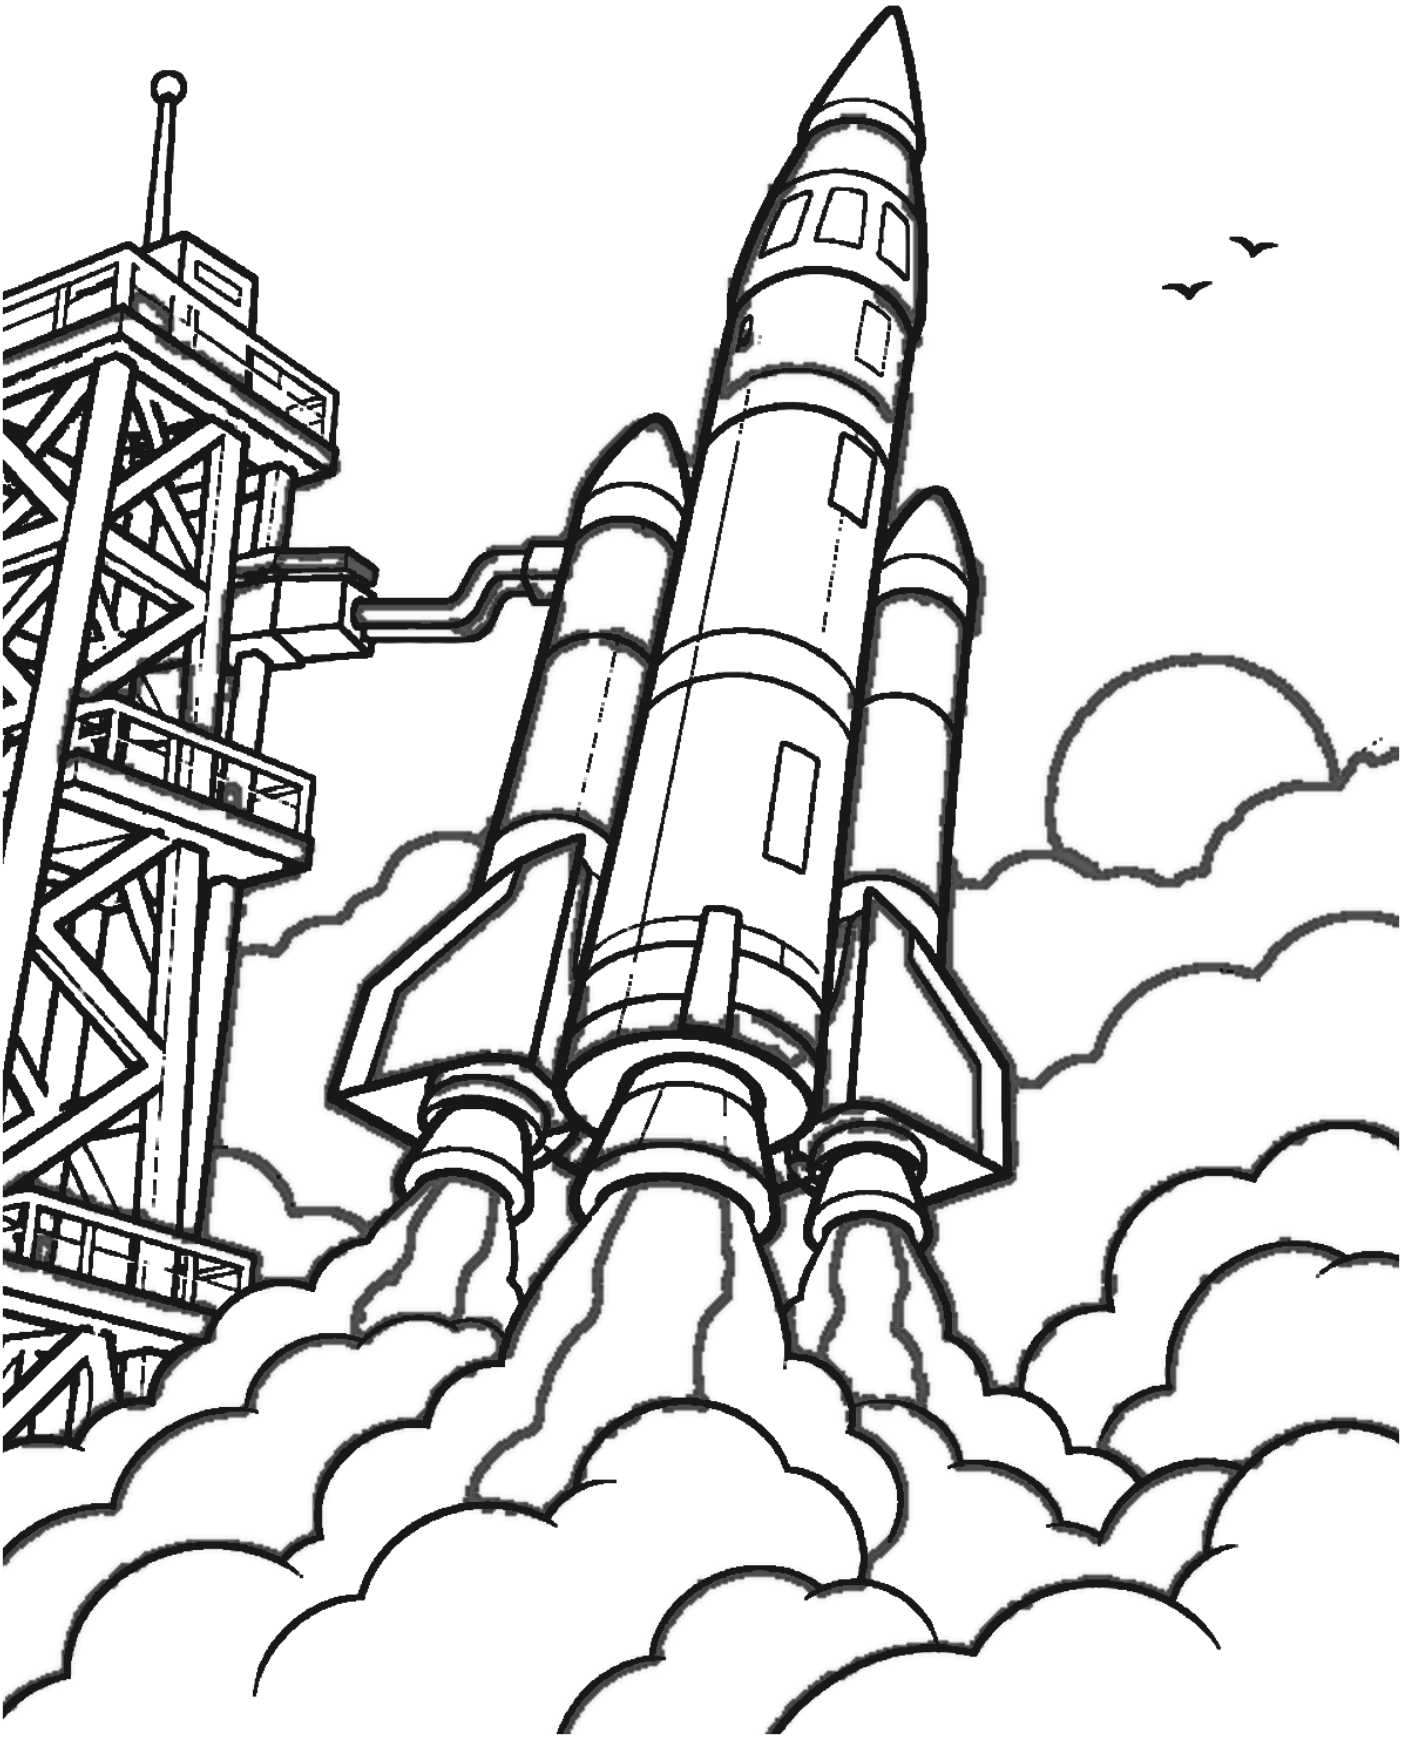
Launch Day

What pushes a rocket off the launchpad?



Did you know? The engine shoots hot gas downward at high speed. The gas pushes back on the rocket in the opposite direction. That upward push is called thrust.