Thunder Boar

What does a wild boar find with its snout?

Did you know? Wild boars have a good sense of smell. They use their snouts to turn over soil and leaves while hunting for roots, insects, and other food. This search method is called rooting.